You burned your flowers to the ground
You turned your back without a sound
But I know, you're right

You trust in something that is true
I have to learn that from you
And I know, you're right

All this pain for nothing
and nothing is an empty word
Pretending is cold as calm
From other places than from us

Forgiving myself for what I've done
Is nothing I want, I'd rather run
But I know, you're right

The best of this seems to be
That I won't be you and you won't be me
And I know, I'm right

All this pain for nothing
and nothing is an empty word
Pretending is cold as calm
From other places than from us

All this pain for nothing
and nothing is an empty word
Pretending is cold as calm
From other places than from us

You burned your flowers to the ground
You turned your back without a sound
But I know, you're right
