Sew a late seed, and so inside
A cast out, unwanted son
A crawl, to do what you want
Sit down, your fault
You run away from anyone

And where you live, I feel most on
A corner of space, that you do right
And guards off, I'll pass you by

Makes no impression as you stand
Makes no impression on me

A waif across the sea, a loss
Because you can't think straight
It's your calling, wasted mourning
You wish it was your hand
Sliding down her back

Call, this is the first thing that you can solve
As the weight comes off again
Always the last to remember a name

Makes no impression as you stand
Made no impression holding sand

You had your captive fan, and then what?
She saw your face and it tied your hands

Made no impression on me
Made no impression on me

And it runs through and it runs through
It shows in your face it runs through your hands

Made no impression on me
Made no impression holding sand
You had your captive fan, and then what?
She saw your face and it tied your hands

You had your captive fan, and then what?
She saw your face and it tied your hands

Made no impression on me
Made no impression on me
