So dark as if my eyes were closed
Looking around the room
Home looks like a foreign land,
Without you
I forgot to turn the light on, I hope you get in soon
Familiar things now in the dark, look like ancient ruins
Pile pillows next to me, and decide that'll do
I try to forget how much space is left,
Without you
Far away you said you had to go
I've left the door unlocked for you
Far away you said you had to go
Wake me when your night is through
Please wake me when your night is through
I heard footsteps down the hall, thought you got in okay
But it wasn't you afterall, just the wind and the rain
Got outta bed anyway, to greet you at the door Sewed a button on that coat you ripped, that I found on the floor
Far away you said you had to go
I've left the door unlocked for you
Far away you said you had to go
Wake me when your night is through
Please wake me when your night is through
It seems so long since you've come around here
Your picture hangs on the wall
But your face isn't clear
Far away you said you had to go
I've left the door unlocked for you
Far away you said you had to go
Wake me when your night is through
Please wake me when your night is through
