When we fall
When we fall
When we loose our grip
Let's lose it all
Let's lose control

When we dive
When we dive
When we sink down deep
Let's drown tonight
Inhale the water

When we rise
When we rise
When the sun hits the wind
And lights our wings
We fly so high

When we burn
When we burn
When the heat feeds our flesh
Melt the candle down
Consuming hay

No one knows what we'll find there
No one knows who we'll meet
No one knows the joy or the sorrow

But he tells of ropes so long
He speaks of arms so strong
He talks of things I cannot grasp
He talks of things I cannot grasp

When we fade
When we fade
When the air hugs our soul
Gold and scarlet coal
Embrace the welkin

When we lay
When we lay

When the ground bares her teeth
Vermin feast on our bones
Dig rabbit holes

When we fly
When we fly
When this bird resurrects
From the ashes up
Igniting stardust

When we fall
When we fall
When we loose our grip
Let's lose it all
Let's lose control

No one knows what we'll find there
No one knows who we'll meet
No one knows the joy or the sorrow

But he tells of ropes so long
He speaks of arms so strong
He talks of things I cannot grasp
He talks of things I cannot grasp
