no matter what it is your going through we will always be here for you no matter how far away when the skys are grey i wont hesitate to pray nothing out there compares to you so much beauty shouting through the place i go to get my (?) you i can't wait to be with you feel your warm embrace i know some times we as people make you feel disgrace

what we need to do right now is come together as one together you and i can make a change african people raise up raise up african people stand up stand up

african people stand up stand up, african people i see the way they paint you in the news if only they could walk in my shoes now we all singing the blues thats why im doing everything that i can do to show the world my love for you it will never change no matter what they say about you in the heart i know

i know some times as people make you feel disgrace
its time for you and i to make a change

african people stand up stand up, african people we need to treat each other better then we are cuz when it comes down to it we are all that we got forget our diffenrences lets focus on whats similar until the day i die im going for my (??)

african people stand up stand up, african people

african people stand up stand up,

african people stand up stand up..
