"If You Knew"

They think you're crazy, they think you're mad
They call you stupid, worthless, tell you you're not worth it
Now you're walking back to the place you call home but you feel so alone
The same hurtful hits, it's your darkest place
In your virgin ears the remarks they make.

If they, if they really knew all of those things
That you do in your room to hide the pain
I bet their minds would change, yeah
I'll bet their minds would change

They'd change if they knew the pain
Change
(I believe in those scars, 'cause I believe)
