Past passions pass right by me now it's ashes on the balcony
You didn't want me to forget you

And it's easy living in Tree City
Don't wake the Dutchess while she's sleeping
You didn't want me to forget you

And it's easy living in Tree City
Where you looking for me?
You didn't want me to forget you

Written in the sky along the miles you drive in the day
Where they have the time to find the simple pleasures
In taking your time I know a similar pace can be found in the ones that you care for

Step out of the race and find a familiar place Where all around are the ones that you care for
