She's hiding in her bedroom
With the blinds drawn to the floor
And the crying is invading
The walls right through the door

It's been eight days and an hour
Since the world left you behind
And it's time now to be honest
To defy these demons

Another filthy needle
Next to an arm erupting veins
As the red implodes in glass
It feeds her pain

Vacant eyes stir black
Like a sunset she is fading
Suicide despair

Body's barely moving
In a state she wont come back from
Suicide despair

It's been nine days and some hours
From the last time I saw you
She seemed happy put together
It's the way I'll remember you

Another filthy needle
Beside an arm erupting veins
As the red implodes through glass
It feeds her pain

Vacant eyes stir black
Like a sunset she is fading
Suicide despair

Body's barely moving
In a state she wont come back from
Suicide despair
