There you go again, out of control again
Off running like the wind, leaving me blue
I take you back and then you break my heart again
It seems I just can't win for losing you

We tried one thousand times to keep this love alive
But your fickle heart just can't be true
Now I've pinned my every hope onto a lie
I just can't win for losing you

A man's a fool who makes the same mistake time after time
And feels each heartache like it was brand new Yes, I'd be rich if broken dreams were dimes
I just can't win for losing you
