Honey come home, home
Would you like to lay in bed with me and fall asleep
Here

Honey come home, home
We could build ourselves a time machine and never leave
Cause home, where the pressure never gets to anyone
And home, where they never measure you or anyone

Honey come home, home
So you need to spend some time alone
The space at home, yeah

Honey come home, home
I promise that I'm feeling stronger now
Remember how,
Cause home used to feel like some where no one else
Could know,
And home, used to feel like no where else could hold
Your love,

Tonight, when we lay beneath the stars,
The care in the world as I hold you in my arms,
I wont let you go.

Honey come home, home
There's nothing left outside to see
So baby hear me

Honey come home, home
We could build ourselves a time machine and never
leave
Cause home, where the pressure never gets to anyone
And home, where they never measure you or anyone

Home used to feel like some where no one else could Know
And home, used to feel like no where else could hold
Your love

I want you home
Please come home
Please come home
