This is where I stand
Our paths have crossed
This time you've crossed the line
Our paths have crossed
This time you've crossed the line
Where words have failed
I've done all I can
Now time will tell
This is where I stand

I could't turn around, I thought I'd never walk away
And even though it hurts I know it's time to change
A clean slate, emptying
Out your space, a new thing

Moving on, I know it's time for understanding
And for us to make a truce
But, in lacking compassion
It's hard for me to forgive you
I always knew you were a coward, coward
I always knew you were afraid, afraid

I can feel the coward
The child inside
I can see he's scared
I can feel the coward
The child inside
You're running scared

Run away.

I could't turn around, I thought I'd never walk away
And even though it hurts I know it's time to change
A clean slate, emptying
Out your space, a new thing

This is where I stand
Run away
