"Won't be back"
Robbie Robertson

The letter that I sent to you, was it lost in the mail then tell me why , there's no reply

Tell me, where can she be tonight as I lay here in the dark, and I reach for you, I long for you

But you're gone like the wind, and I know, that you won't be back again

Pictures of days gone by, that you painted as a child you gave to me, you saved for me.. where does she sleep tonight?, is she underneath a star, the healing grace, the secret place that you've gone, like the wind,

and I know, that you won't be back again

Oh look down, from your ivory tower that's me standing, in the mist and I try to hide, my broken cry... but you've gone, like the wind
