Lost in the grace that I thought you had given to me
Only to be taken away without a second thought
Plastic Jesus on the wall you're staring down at me
Wondering how I could ever let this all go wrong

All I really have is me
And I'm trying to be strong
All I really have is me
And I'm trying to hold on

Can't you see me raise my hands in a desperate sign
While all that you can do is just wave goodbye
How can you just turn and walk away from me
Leaving me down here reaching out for you one last time

All I really have is me
And I'm trying to be strong
All I really have is me
And I'm trying to hold on

I know that you understood, well I understand
That I can't be near you like I could before
You do anything you want, do anything you please
Just don't don't don't you forget about me

All I really have is me
And I'm trying to be strong
All I really have is me
And I'm trying to hold on
