"Human Race"

I sail over the sun, never close enough to feel the fire
Always on the run, never stop never tire

Another time another place
Never win the human race

Across the night I fly, crossing over space and time Lines blurring more and more, don't care how don't know why
Chains can break to set you free, or tie you up to keep you down
Take a look and you will see, answers are all around

Look around and then look away
Take me down to where I want to stay
Another time another place
Never to win this human race

Look around and then look away
Take me down to where I want to stay
Another time another place
Never can win this human race
