A gentle breeze flows around the ship
On glass champain and you take a sip
The stars so bright for you they shine
Will you be mine, yes you are mine

And now the orchestra begins to play
And on the floor the dancers give us a way
Plays a rhythm laying in the air
It's just for you that I care

I was seventeen at the time
And he was a ship's officer
Now all the merried went Followed we couldn't go, ah
Anyway, we hit to New Orleans

And our table were a saloon
As we got moved by the saxophone
We dance and dance and all each other time Along the table on the other side

A greatest love in eye we dance
I pull it into your eyes at once
And every star that shines above, shines above
Is hearing my love

The orchestra will never stop to play
And I will always sway and sway away
Is hearing my love

And our our table were a saloon
As we got moved by the saxophone
We dance and dance and all each other time Along the
table on the other side

He said he loved me, I wanted to merry him
