The wind rolled in from the other side of town
Where the people slept so softly and sound
But, some lay awake, not me, I'm quietly in a dream

Where there was an orange sky
To blow my mind
Right before my eyes
Before my eyes, eyes, right before my eyes
And that's when I cried
I cried
Oh I cried

Now as my body lite up like a gun
I took off like an airplane towards the sun
Oh towards the sun
Oh towards the sun
And it made me wonder if I could define
My place in time
Oh my place in time
For eternity

And as I descended to the ground
I brought back with me that old rusty crown from the other side of town, town, the other side of town
The other side of town, town, is where I'll be found...
