All of the cold winds blowing
Through our neighborhoods
While my frustration's growing
Through concrete, steel and wood
I need more love

I need more love every day of my life
I need more love every day of my life
I need more love every day of my life
I need more love every day of my life

I'm tired of feeling tension
Everyone's talking black and white
When will something change me
And help me get my mind right
I need more love, I need more love

I need more love every day of my life
I need more love every day of my life
I need more love every day of my life
I need more love every day of my life

C'mon fill the room, baby
Take the shackle off of your feet
Let the love flow, say

I need more love every day of my life
I need more love every day of my life
I need more love every day of my life
I need more love every day of my life
