I never thought I would be the man that I see before me
When I look in your eyes as you try not to cry, it's pain I see

Now I know that what I've done is wrong
And I know that it's hard to be strong
When the hurting inside you from all of the lies lasts so long

So let me hold you here in my arms and console you Keep you safe from the harm that you felt before I will give you more, baby, promise you'll try to hold on

Look in my eyes, look in my heart
Look in my soul, girl, it's torn all apart
Look at my pride, lay down on the floor
Praying you'll give us just one more chance
To love like before, let me love you some more

How could I ever let go of the one true love I'll ever know?
Every night, girl, I pray that it isn't too late to hold you close

Can I bring you in from the rain and protect you?
Take away all the pain that you felt back then
We can love again, girl, I know that I was to blame

Look in my eyes, look in my heart
Look in my soul, girl, it's torn all apart
Look at my pride, lay down on the floor
Praying you'll give us just one more chance
To love like before, let me love you some more

Baby, I swear that I'll give you more
All of the things your heart's looking for Now girl please don't walk away
Trust me when I say, you have all of my love

Look in my eyes, look in my heart
Look in my soul, girl, it's torn all apart
Look at my pride, lay down on the floor
Praying you'll give us just one more chance

To love like before, let me love you some more

Look in my eyes, look in my heart
Look at my pride, down on the floor
Praying you'll give us just one more chance
To love like before, let me love you some more
