My bones they ache under the weight that they take
Of the world in my arms there's no air in my lungs
If I breathe you in I am scared I will drown
Scared that if I get in I will never get out

My heavy heart
Keeps me awake in the night
See my head and my heart
Have a battle to fight

And this love, it weaves in and out between our hearts
And to you I'm bound

My bones don't break now with the weight that you take
As your arms they meet mine I surrender the fight
I have breathed you in and now we can begin
Seems my heart it has won and my head is undone

And this love, it weaves in and out between our hearts
And to you I'm bound

If you call for me I'm here
I am always at your side
If you call for me I'm here
I am bound and you are mine

And this love, it weaves in and out between our hearts
And to you I'm bound
