Awry love gone awry don't even make you cry a knock at the door has you with your ear to the floor love gone awry has cut you to the core your hearts been tore the devils keeping the score your ear to the floor your not able to open the door love gone awry has left you with an open sore your sure the devils the one whos knocking at the door a quarter past four your ear still to the floor no more knocking at the door the devils workshop moving to a different door getting your ear up off the floor you figure out what the knocking is all about devil was thinking he could put you outtry to make you shout that love has gone awry the devil didn't have the clout your gonna give love another shot you know it makes the devil hot twists his soul into a knot love wont go awry the devil still prys only now you see him cry watching as his workshop fries the devil will lie tell you loves gone awry
