When you can't believe a word they say
And you're haunted by the swords they raise
Like a rabid dog we've seen before
They refuse to hear the world pounding, pounding down their door
We don't want your war
Let's all yell a little louder now
We don't want your war
All stand together tall
We don't want your war
But you keep telling us, you keep telling us we do
The king has no clothes so he leads by fear
We must challenge all the lies we hear
The devil's bombs has an oily smell
Frames a legacy with infamy and he burns it, he burns it into hell
We don't want your war
Let's all yell a little louder now
We don't want your war
All stand together tall
We don't want your war
But you keep telling us, you keep telling us we do
Try to turn us into lemmings with their magic on TV
Leaking military secrets is one of their specialties
To reporters hanging on their words like schoolgirls in love
They've got the scoop, but we're no closer to the truth
If we raise our flag on a million graves
Will we all be proud or will we be ashamed'
Of our leadership, greedy and arrogant
And we'll all be judged by the choices, the choices that we made
We don't want your war
Let's all sing a little louder now
We don't want your war
All stand together tall
We don't want your war
But you keep telling us we do

We don't want your war
All stand together and yell
We don't want your war
All stand together tall
We don't want your war
So stop telling us...stop telling us we do
