Hurry, hurry, 'cause every night's a worry
I've been alone too long
Mary's caring but always says the right things
She's been away too long

Kisses with memories but I am here to punish
For fear for grace would fall
I'm hell-bent, torment, now I know what God meant
Hello death, my old friend
Ah ah ah ah Oh oh oh oh

And it's little boxes all made into houses
That's where they sleep, my friend
I sing a song of sixes, invoke the curse of witches
In a remote woodland

Ah ah ah ah
Oh oh oh oh

So hurry, hurry, 'cause every night's a worry
And I've been alone too long
