I found a match when I met her at my doorstep.
We'll leave it at that, cause it couldn't make more sense.
I'm so set on her.
I'm always at a loss for words, it started at first sight.
She keeps me up all night.

I'm awkward and shy.
She either doesn't think so, or she doesn't seem to mind.

She never walks, she's always dancing.
She never dances without me.
She never talks, she's always singing.
Even her laugh is right on key, oh I know it's true.
I don't think I'll ever see somebody the way I see you.

I'm attached to the fact that I was so blind when we see eye to eye.
But if we never had time, I'd set my sights to find hers.
I'd settle right beside her, tonight.

She's my galaxy.
Before her I didn't know me.
