"Escape Escape"

When we make mistakes
We face our backs and run from them
Without directions, we run from them
With no expectations, we run from them

I can't look back anymore
Cause' I've already faced forwards
I won't end to escape, and so will you
We don't run single file, it's always not straight

When we were mistaken
We face our mind and know that we were right
No one says so, but we know that we were right
And we just go, but we know that we were right

I can't look back anymore
Cause' I've already faced forwards
I won't end to escape, and so will you
We don't run single file, it's always not straight

We just run in circles, never ending
We don't face life, we're just bending
And someone said to me that ain't how it goes
Life is in two, to claim and accept how it flows

But we still face our backs, we never dare
Dare look back, although no one will care
Because we are not always wrong, you know yourself

I'll start escaping, I won't look back, just in case
I'll start escaping, somewhere far away, in my pace
