There's no point of laying in your bed
Counting all the moments you have wasted
Summer's almost gone
The bee's are scarce
Packing up on pollen for Queen Lady
It's the change that will make us build

Chorus 1

Ever since I was eighteen
Living life felt like a dream
I see the world fall at it's feet
All I can do is believe

There's a place to find the reasons why
Good and bad co-exist as a being
And through I've no clue where is answer lies
I myself am searching for a meaning
Of the change that will make us build

Chorus 2

Witnessing the hell I'm in
Can't tell where life ends or begins
And once I get out from the past
It will be clear what is my path

Musical interlude with la la la's

It's the change that will make us build
