

Rocky Votolato "The Rain Will Come"

Visit "The Rain Will Come" on MotoLyrics.com

Sometimes, you have to be brave and let things fall where they will
It's not yours to decide how this night will be Sometimes, you have to be brave enough to stop the worrying
That keeps you further from the place you're heading

The rain will come, you can't stop that or hurry it up
So bury the guilt, it's not your fault
Everything he did, I don't wanna risk anything
So, I'm standing still, I'll be right here when you come to find me

Control is comforting, maybe I should be running
If I controlled anything
I'd be scared of the place that I'd be
I thank you for saving me

When the time is right, I swear my day will come The sweetest storm will blow through this town and carry us out
So take a look around and see how it's coming down
To wash you blood and bone from the inside out

The rain will come, you can't stop that or hurry it up
So, bury the guilt, it's not your fault
All that he did, I don't wanna risk anything
So, I'm standing still, I'll be right here when you come
to find me

Control is comforting, maybe I should be running
If I controlled anything
I'd be scared of the place that I'd be
I thank you for saving me

Visit Rocky Votolato page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.