When the winds of change hit hard and knock you off your guard
And you find out there's a serpent in the grass Though forked tongues might speak if truth is what you seek
This too will pass

When your all tied up in knots and your friends are taking shots
And the sun comes up and kicks you in the ass When your stumbling down the aisle and you feel like you're on trial
This too will pass

Sometimes you've gotta go down the middle of the road
Where compromise puts speed bumps in your path
If you know what you won't let no one say you don't
This too will pass

Sometimes you gotta crawl through the middle of it all But don't compromise your heart for something crass When everything you do just feels like nothing new
This too will pass

When your all locked up in pain be careful who you blame
This too will pass
