(ron wood, rod stewart, ian mclagan, 1973) Oh cindy ain't you noticed That several of your friends have moved on And the street outside is just a little too quiet And your local papers run out of news I'm not persuading you or disengaging you But cindy you and me we got to move Can you refuse, no time to lose We'll hit the high road early this morning So don't be late, don't hesitate This dream can pass just as fast as lighting And oh cindy incidentally baby I ain't putting you on Can you refuse, with () lose We'll hit the high road early this morning So don't be late, don't hesitate This dream can pass just as fast as lighting Oh cindy don't you worry? cause between us we can make it through There ain't nothing no no nothing In the world I can do without you So cindy get your coat on Leave the rent with the gent up in the penthouse Turn your music so loud let's attract a big crowd We'll drink a round to this town and bid goodbye
