when I close my eyes all I see are visions of you and when I open my eyes your absence pulls me down and I try to but I can't shake myself loose

I can't command my brain all I do is shrink and think of one thing I am sitting alone beside me I'm digging a hole inside myself all I want is world I think I found when I look in to your eyes all I know is that I am tired of the world around me

then it came here I am thinking of you is everything within me and I know that you will never feel me never see me never know these thoughts of mine but in my mind you're always there always smiling and always reaching out for me the days go on with heart ache the days go on with emptiness all I want is to some how matter to you even if all else rejection all I know is that I am hammered from the world around me

don't destroy me

all I want is world I think I found
when I look in to your eyes

and I burn down time trying to find a way to get through to you I know I am standing in line for a hand out it'll never come but still I don't care felling like looking like naked fear is everything fear is everything I am laid out wide eyed exposed unable to forget you
