you were wrong
you let hell invade you and you let me go love wants to be both gentle and cruel you were a fool, you should have known and would you wear berries in your hair for this battalion of lovers? and would you share this table set among the stones of your brothers? i thought i had no wish to protect you, to conquer you but now i have turned to you so leave death and come to me you will see, i will leave no scar on you for you were meant to be with me, here for we are built, trained, conditioned to disappear we shall stay in the shadows, in the meadows afire as thieves for hire

and we shall remain invisible, for we travel light for we do not rush toward the light for we dance if we can with our eyes closed all along the borders, all along the road and we shall make our movements lighter

like the boys on the wire to regain the joy and fierceness of the essential man cool out here, beside me cool out in the sands of Spain cool out and wash yourself in milk again and now you shall moan and you shall weep and you shall loathe the other cheek my friend you cant pretend to know life in every breath to wound my pride, to envy death you didn't come up with this cure and rest assured your longings never seemed pure and each time i will come each time i will be another a sinner, a saint, your enemy brother i shall make you say please i shall have you on your knees wir haben unsere welt verloren was ?brig bleibt schleppen wir jetzt in koffern durch halb europa an alle welt uns ausgeschenkt! vom leben unbesiegt was uns eint ist der verzicht!

you were meant to be with me, here
for we are built, trained, conditioned to disappear
and we dance if we can with our eyes closed all along the borders, all along the road
we shall make our movements lighter
