(Mary Ann Kennedy/Kye Fleming/Rich Wayland)

Bobby still drives that old pickup truck
He had back in high school
Says he won't trade it in
'Cause they don't make 'em like they used to
His wife Donna got a picture of Elvis
By the clock in the kitchen
Her hair and clothes come back in style
Every now and then
They made a promise on their wedding day
Nothing's gonna take this feeling away

Let the world turn
Years drift by
The fire will burn in their hearts just as bright
Time may take it's toll
But their love won't grow old
And if they live to be a hundred and one
They're still gonna die young

Bobby spent years fixin' wheels and brakes
At the Texaco on the highway
Donna kept the kids
And did permanent waves
At the beauty shop on Fridays
It's been forty years
But who'd ever know
It's just the way they carried on
The same two kids as much in love
As the day they married on
They made a promise on their wedding day
Nothing's gonna take this feeling away

Let the world turn
Years drift by
The fire will burn
And their hearts just as bright
Time may take it's toll
But their love won't grow old
And if they live to be a hundred and one
They're still gonna die young

They're gonna die young
