(R. Milsap/D. Schlitz)

I never expected to see you
I figured you long since left town
I just came here to have a few beers
For a moment to turn time around.

Back to the nights I spent with you
Back to the good times we shared
I never expected to see you
But I see you every where/

So I sat here and wrote you this letter
And I thought of the things I would say
Are you and that man still together
And are you glad your life turned out this way.

I've done my best to forget you
And prove to the world I don't care
I never expected to see you
But I see you everywhere.

And your eyes are as blue as the day that you left
And your face hasn't changed with time
Your hair's still as long and your skin's still as soft
At least that's how it is in my mind.

These are just words on paper
Pardon me if I stare
I never expected to see you
But I see see you every where.

I never expected to see you
But I see you everywhere...
