On a highway to nowhere
Big city lights in my rearview mirror
Adjust my eyes
As the sun goes down I speak and I forget

The sound of the dark
Listen to the rain
And the radio's off but no one complains
I drive all by myself and wait for the day

Some may leave and some may lie
Some they kneel and some they fly
Some they lead and some they fall behind

The things you forgive and learn to forget
In the pitch black dark
Recall what it meant to believe in things you can't feel with your hands

If there's fire on the ground or floods on the streets
And you're all out of words for the things you believe
As the daylight fades just turn your eyes towards me

Some may leave and some may lie
Some they kneel and some they fly
Some they lead and some they fall behind

Nothing left to lose

Don't make me wait
Make me wait
Make me wait without you

Don't make me wait
Make me wait
Make me wait without you

Don't make me wait
Make me wait
Make me wait without you

Don't make me wait
Make me wait
Make me wait without you
