Feel the fire, burnin' through your knees Feel the angels watchin' you through the trees
If I could be anything in the world, I'd be true to me and you I'd climb those trees, kneel on my knees, and be closer, closer to the truth

Feels the flame but she feels no pain
and it's hard to see when you're in the rain but the truth is, I will never forget you

Let me lead you in a river so deep First we'll shiver, but soon after we will see That when we reach the ancient waterfall Your mind is clear and you'll feel it all

Feels the flame but she feels no pain
and it's hard to see when you're in the rain
but the truth is, I will never forget you

Let me lift you as I run like the wind Let me hold you as I shine like the sun
He has led me to you, so if you can't make it through Let me be your eyes, a disguise

Feels the flame but she feels no pain
and it's hard to see when you're in the rain

Soon you will run like the wind
And soon you will shine like the sun Soon you will smile 'till you run or shine no more...
