I laid the blanket there on the shoreline

And saw the water shine with the moon

What kind of fool would fail to notice the best thing shining was you

Oh I laughed kinda nervous

I felt you move closer and felt the world unwind once was a stranger not quite a lover but steadily crossing the line

Carry me far away

dont hold back I wont break

leave the ghosts behind

all I know wrong or right just the thought of this night will get me every time

every time

Well the voice in my head said what are you doing

I thought

Not listening to you

You see I'm taking a chance and thinking 'bout flying over the blue

And its crazy to be this out of practice and have it all come so naturally Dont you love knocking logic right off its axis and watch it flow far out to sea Carry me far away
dont hold back I wont break
leave the ghosts behind
all I know wrong or right
just the thought of this night
will get me everytime
So now here I am reading my fortune in the winding lines of your hand Oh and I see a lost unwanted orphan head right for the promise land Carry me far away
I wont ,I wont Break
