It's quiet now. I'm standing down...falling.
I've stood in this place
time and time again.
And yet here I am now.

She said "You're falling behind.
Alive. Dead." I've fallen behind.

A precious thing, I'm discarding...falling.
I've looked in your eyes
time and time again.
And yet here I am now.

It's all there,
a black and white picture
lost in translation.
Cold and bare,
neon-green boots,
a busy train station.
And now....
