Side by side, I am listening to your heart
Keeping time with mine in the dark
And this love is a growing, lifting note
Starts a lump in my throat every day
And people say that when you know
Your heart beats fast and the earth moves slow

All my steps seem to flow in three-quarter time
And I'll never forget your face at my door in the morning light
There was plenty of snow packed against the window
And our future hidden in a brown envelope
Saying "You are the light from the house on the shore,
The light I was looking for,
And now I know I will no longer roam;
I just row my boat home.
Yeah, you are the light from the house on the shore,
The light I was looking for,
And now I know I will no longer roam;
I just row my boat home.
I just row my boat home."
