I want you, and I want truth
Truly, I want you to be mine
I want you, and I want truth
I want you to be mine

It's as simple as this
Warm as the kiss that I place on the side of your head
Where I rest, where I confess
In your ear all the things that I dread, I dread

You're my natural high
The kind you can't buy in a bottle or a cigarette
Don't ask me why I keep trying Press my hand close

Say goodbye to the ghosts that have followed you all through the years
Let it all go
All you need to know is that I am a place safe for tears
Safe for tears, safe for tears

And I want you, and I want truth
I want you to be mine, be mine, be mine
