I can remember the good old days
When you and me used to hide away
Where the stars were shining or the sun was burning our eyes

Yea, you fill up my glass
With promises that could never last
Put I still pieces of you in the back of my mind

And all little that we once said
Are not in my heart, they're in my head
That was the time to say goodbye
Let's put it to rest, it already died

'Cause we don't, we don't need to talk about this now
Yea we've been down that road before
That was then and this is now
Because in my heart they've been calling out your name
Now we just don't feel the same
I guess it's over, yea we're done

I heard you made your way downtown
To the place that we've been hanging around
I was looking for your face in the crowd
But trying to keep my head down

Over time our wires crossed
Or you changed it and you got lost
All the things I would change if we could only rewind

You were a moment in life that comes and goes
The rhythm, the rhyme and all no one knows
The change in the heart, a twist of fate
Couldn't fix it, it's too late

'Cause we don't, we don't need to talk about this now
Yea we've been down that road before

That was then and this is now
Because in my heart they've been calling out your name
Now we just don't feel the same
I guess it's over, yea we're done

We don't, we don't need to talk about this now
We don't, we don't need to talk about this now
We don't, we don't need to talk about this now
We don't, we don't need to talk about this now
