Cozy is a woman now, but she wants to be a girl again
She don't care for all the people who tell her She should be the way that they think it is

She don't see them, she got better things to do with her eyes
And no, she don't even need them 'cause it's better
It so much better right here inside
When you stop looking for something, something you'll never find

Lemon is a girl again, she don't care what all the people say
She got ribbons in her hair today, she walks around just like she is it
And she don't see them, she got better things to do
With her blue, blue eyes

And no, she don't even believe them, it's better
It so much better right here inside
When you stop looking for something, something you'll
never find
When looking for something, something you'll never find

And no, she ain't got no money to spend
And no fancy threads she shows off in
And ain't got no man, but she's all right Man she's outta sight

Cozy know she's better 'cause she's built her house
Right where she stands, she got big crops and no locks
See the sun it shines down on everything

She ain't got no money to spend
And no fancy threads to walk around in
And no one to love her, but it's all right
When you got it inside

Stop looking for something, something you'll never
No, no more looking for something

Something you'll never find, you're just fine, fine, fine
Looking for something, something you'll never find
