I'm now reflecting 'bout a time
When loneliness didn't use to make me fight
But now it seems "farewell" is all that's left
And I find myself with thousand questions in my head
God knows I've tried so hard to see Things will never be as used to be
But it's just so hard to erase the past away
If I could try to make you understand

Lonely tears of pain, falling from this heart,
Left me drowning all over these years
(In this flood of fears)
Silence's been so loud, your voice is gone away
Like these withred roses your love has faded away

Somehow I could resist the pain
Everytime I thought I'd never see you again
But now I hide my tears in the rain
And pray someday you'll send my sorrow away

Lonely tears of pain, falling from this heart,
Left me drowning all over these years
(In this flood of fears)
Silence's been so loud, your voice is gone away
Like these withred roses your love has faded away

Even people say there's no wound time can't heal,
After all these years it couldn't change the way I feel
Now these withred roses are fallen on the way
