Underneath the mountain stars
I have only come this far
That everything stays all the same
Apart from everything you aim

After all it's not that hard
If you're hiding in the dark
No-one sees the shame of you
Expect the worst that's shining through

From now on
Things 'll go right
At least if they don't turn the other side
From now on
I can only promise all 'll be well
From now on
Even if a boon turns into a spell

Underneath the winter sun
Hope we're not the only ones
Who have got tomorrows dreams
Celebrating every spleen

Armed with our irrelevance
We set fire to the fence
Excluding all initiates
Leave them to their gains and rates

From now on
Things 'll go right
At least if they don't turn the other side
From now on
I can only promise all 'll be well
From now on
Even if a boon turns into a spell

From now on
Things 'll go right
Even if they don't turn the other side
From now on
I can only promise we 'll be fine

From now on
Even though we are the last in line
