Through my eyes you think I see you
It's not what I thought you were
I can't believe you let it change you
Now I roam the Earth
Didn't think you could take such beauty
And turn it into a mess
It seems you forgot them
It seems you try your best

We don't have that much to be proud of
Or to hold on to
But we still have our feelings
Tell me, why don't you?

I think you're doing it all wrong
Losing all your friends
Out of a job and out of mind
You won't survive
Can't even recall
A picture of your face
Can't take a drink
You swallow lies
You won't survive

Since the stairs I knew you grew me
You were always me sun
Now I find you've got me withered
I know you're not the one
Late at night you mock my feelings
By what you put in my head
Your whispers should have warned me
But I can't take a hint

We don't have that much to be proud of
Or to hold on to
But we still have our feelings
Tell me, why don't you?

I think you're doing it all wrong
Losing all your friends
Out of a job and out of mind

You won't survive
Can't even recall
Can't take a drink
You swallow lies
You won't survive

How can I forgive you?
I don't know what's in you
Believe me when I say that I won't call
How can I forgive you?
I don't know what's in you
Believe me when I say that I won't call

We don't have that much to be proud of
Or to hold on to
Tell me, why don't you?

I think you're doing it all wrong
Out of a job and out of mind
You won't survive
You swallow lies
You won't survive

You won't survive
You won't survive
You won't survive
You won't survive
