You can't say you love me, but you have feelings too,

You say we're just friends, you know that ain't true,

You taught me new ways to feel like a fool,

Saying you won't need me, 'til I don't need you.

When I'm lonely, you're nowhere around,

Bet you'll find me when I'm toast of the town,

Your kind of loving has got me confused

Being that you won't need me, 'til I don't need you.

Now is that why you come back to haunt me?

Now is that you say you miss me too?

Now is that why every time I start chasing you,

You run away and leave me with the blues?

You're like a two-way street with only one lane,

Finding new ways to drive me insane.

Now I'm turning five shades of blue,

Saying that you won't need me until I don't need you.

Now is that why every time I start chasing you,

You run away and leave me with the blues?

You're like a two-way street with only one lane,

Finding new ways to drive me insane.

Now I'm turning five shades of blue,

Saying that you won't need me until I don't need you.

Saying that you won't need me until I don't need you.
