Would you believe if I said that all that you know has gone?
Nightmare, which you never thought could come out of your dream, it's done, I tell you Purposeless rage came down from the skies Counting the end of your world, open your eyes, open your eyes, open your eyes...

I'm down on my knees for you, father
I'm down, 'cause I gotta tell you...

Fire is eating your house, erasing the word "tomorrow" Time's standing still and your mind is about to explode from pain and sorrow
Helpless and weak you look at the skies
Horror of capital crime's in front of your eyes

Wishes and hopes in the mud, under their boots, are fading away
Leaving you out in the cold, lost and alone, unwilling, making nightmares and fears
To something you feel, like they're real
Pieces of led for your life, it's part of the deal

Out in the rain, here I am
Down on my knees for you, father
Tell me just what have we done
One to another

God, how can you let me see, my eyes are tired of watching betrayal and lies Up there, beware, we build the cross you were once forced to bare
Quiet and cold you look from the skies
We are your tragic mistake, so open your eyes

Out in the rain, here I am
Down on my knees for you, father
Tell me just what have we done
One to another

Out in the rain, here I am
Praying and begging you, father
Look what you're letting us do
One to another

Out in the rain, here I am
Down on my knees for you, father
Tell me just what have we done
One to another

Out in the rain, here I am
Praying and begging you, father
Look what you're letting us do
One to another

I'm down on my knees for you, father
Down, I gotta tell you, I tell you...
