"Love and Lies"

We've grown apart as if we're floating out in space,
Our hearts are empty now and inside of this place,
Sits a box of things that remind me of you,
And if we had the chance to start again, this is what I'd do:

I'd believe you everytime you said you loved me,
Instead of pushing you away,
And thinking that love was above me,
And I'd try to tell you things that you'd have liked to know,
And not leave them there as feelings that I didn't want to show.

I'd live it like everyday was the last day of my life,
Sing it like this one day,
Last chance to say goodbye,
And if I could ever say all the things that I so loved
about you,
Would you stay?

You were always the obsessive, jealous type,
The one who never could be wrong,
And let me know I wasn't right,
And you'd knock me down at every single chance you could,
I bet you never thought I'd leave,
I guess you always thought I would stay with you,
In this game that you played,
With the smile on your face,
And the mess that you made,
My mask is off, no longer am I in your masquerade.

And you'd live it like every day was the last day of your life,
Sing it like this one day,
Last chance to say goodbye,
And if you could ever say all the things that you so loved about me,
Would I stay?

And after all that we've been through,
This is my advice to you...

Live it like everyday was the last day of your life,
Sing it like this one day,
Last chance to say goodbye,
And if I could ever say all the things that I so loved
about you,
Would you stay?
