End the day as the sundown
Puts a lean on what grows
Creeping, steady, around those
Stepping stones avoiding cold toes

It's so politely framed
You've forgotten every name
And they're all passing through

Alone it seems so clear
We're complacent in our tears
Wasting away for nothing when
Right now we are here

It's so politely framed
You've forgotten every name
And as birds disappear
Right now we are here
It's so politely framed
You've forgotten every name
And they're all passing through.
