(Jack Rhodes - Porter Jordan)

Each night I stare at darkness and shadows on the wall
Listen to your laughter in the room across the hall
I trample when there's silence and your name I call
For you're with another in the room across the hall.

The music that is playing our songs you played for me
Love words you are saying are words I once believed
In loneliness I'm waiting for footsteps to fall
Then I'll know you're leaving the room across the hall.

The music I hear playing our songs you played for me
Love words you are saying are words I once believed
In loneliness I'm waiting for footsteps to fall
Then I'll know you're leaving the room across the hall...
