There's a lady who knows you know
All the to's and the fro's they go
When they're changing their minds
As the passion unwinds
But she knows as she watches
Over the evening star
That they'll all be together
No matter where they all are
There's a prince on a mountain top

And the mystery fills his cup
With the call of the wind
And a beautiful child
And she knows as she watches
Over the evening star
That they'll all be together
No matter where they all are
And she knows as she watches
Over the evening star
That we'll all...
