When see me coming down the mountain
Stepping back into the light of day
You should know it's your smile that I've been holding
In my heart to help me find my way

Put your blue jeans on
Tie your hair back, say you'll come along
Let's go smell that honeysuckle hanging in the air
Promise you'll be there

I've been deep down working neath the mountain
Needing so to hear that whistle blow
In your eyes is the cure for all my doubting
When I feel you in my arms I will know, oh

Put your blue jeans on
Tie your hair back, baby, come along
Let me feel that honey loving
Show me you still care
Promise you'll be there

Put your blue jeans on
Tie your hair back, say you'll come along
Let's go smell that honeysuckle hanging in the air
Promise you'll be there
